FINLAND TO HAVE A KING IS REPORTED

PRINCE OSCAR, FIFTH SON OF GERMAN EMPEROR, MAY BE NAMED AS NEW RULER
FOR HIS SUBSIDIZED NATION.

CONTROL BY GERMANS

Of the Vast Gulf of Finland is Now Assured and Loss of Much Territory to Russia is Seen by Latest Move.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, March 8.—It is learned that the newly organized Finnish government has asked Emperor William to appoint his fifth son, Prince Oscar, as King of Finland. The announcement comes from Stockholm through official papers which assure its authenticity.

A Young Man.
Prince Oscar is not thirty until July 27th next. On the 31st of July, in 1914 Prince Oscar, doubtless against the wishes of his father, was married to the Countess Ina Bassowitz, who had been a lady in waiting in his mother's court. This morganatic marriage displeased the Emperor, it is stated.

In Fighting.
In the early days of the war Prince

Oscar displayed much courage on the west front, but collapsed with an attack of heart failure, during the fighting about Verdun in 1914. Later he was reported as nearly captured in Poland during the fighting on the east front against Russia. Nothing of his military activity is known in 1915 but in 1916 he was reported wounded in the head on the western front.

In the past five days Germany has forced peace terms upon three countries—Russia, Rumania and Finland. The Finnish government submitted to the German terms to gain aid in handling their own revolution, the forces of which hold a good portion of southern Finland. Germany will aid with troops and financial support, it is stated, and with Prince Oscar as King will practically dominate the Gulf of Finland.

With Finland and Estonia under German control, the Gulf of Finland is now taken from Russia and that country has lost one hundred and fifty miles of coast line and Germany has gained wonderful advantage by the change and Finland will be a German state in the future.

Ferdinand will continue to rule Rumania but the terms which Germany has forced upon that country are most humiliating. Important oil, wheat and salt concessions have been forced from the country as well as the control of the Rumanian railroads for a period of fifteen years after the termination of the war by Germany. Other concessions granted loses the control of the Dobridja and

MONEY FOR RED CROSS RAISED BY CHILDREN

School children of this city who are members of the Junior Red Cross and set out to make thirty-five dollars in ten days have succeeded in raising over twice that sum. Every pupil in the public schools of this city is enrolled and everyone was required to raise money for the Red Cross.

Each school in the city is a separate unit and a banner was offered to the school which was first to raise their required amount of money.

The money was raised by selling old paper and junk and by the children doing work for which they were paid. Every cent was accounted for and money that had been given the children by their parents was returned.

The Red Cross banner offered the school which was first "Over the Top" was awarded the German Lutheran school which sent in their report at nine o'clock Monday morning. They were closely followed by the children of St. Mary's school which had their report in at eleven o'clock. The Garfield school was the next to hand in a report and was awarded third place.

During the campaign the children succeeded in raising $37.90 by selling junk and old paper and $19.94 was earned by the children for doing light work.

The campaign came to a close this afternoon when the banner was unfurled at the German Lutheran school, and exercises were held. Short talks were given by St. Faust of the public schools, J. J. Lowth and Mr. Starnard, principal of the German Lutheran school.

On Monday morning exercises will be held at the Garfield school at which time a banner will be unfurled and an address will be given the children by Mr. Wertenbuck, chairman of the local Red Cross organization.

MAY START SORGHUM MILL IN THIS CITY

CHARLES OAS MAKES EXCELLENT OFFER TO FARMERS—WILL BUILD MILL IF THEY WILL GROW SORGHUM.

IS MOST TIMELY OFFER

Plan Is Worthy of Careful Consideration—Asks that Thirty or Forty Acres Be Grown This Season.

If thirty or forty farmers living in the near vicinity of Janesville will each agree to raise an acre of sorghum this season, Charles Oas of this city will start a mill to manufacture the crop into syrup. Mr. Oas is making the proposition in good faith and farmers are urged to consider the situation seriously. With the sugar situation throughout the country in such a critical state it is a timely offer which is well worth consideration. Mr. Oas will secure a location and install the press and vats necessary for the production if he can obtain a guarantee of forty acres of sorghum. Many years ago there were several sorghum mills in different parts of Rock county and hundreds of farmers raised crops of it. Mr. Oas has had much experience in a mill in the town of Newark and in the sugar industry regarding the work in Janesville.

There are a number of varieties of sorghum. The cultivated forms are generally classified into the saccharine and non-saccharine groups. The first of these groups is characterized by its sweet juice, from which syrup or molasses is made; and the second by a heavier growth of stalks which yield much lower in sugar content than in the saccharine group. The principal varieties of saccharine sorghum are amber, orange, simcoe or red top, and roosevelt. The non-saccharine sorghum group, Kaffir corn, Milo maize, Jerusalem corn, Egyptian rice corn and durra. The broom corns, which are also sorghums, produce a very fluffy product and otherwise have much in common with the saccharine group.

The sorghum plant produces its seed in a terminal head, or panicle. It is a native of tropical regions of Africa, although it has long been grown in Asia and also in Europe for food and forage. Broom corn and non-saccharine sorghum are native to this country by the colorists, but the saccharine sorghums were not introduced until about 1855. In Europe and America sorghum serves as a food for stock and also produces a syrup, but in Africa, India and China the seed forms a staple article of food. Both groups, but especially the non-saccharine sorghum, are well adapted to this country for the production of forage for live stock.

The conditions of growth are practically the same for corn, and sorghum grows very successfully in the corn belt. The non-saccharine group, however, is very drought-resistant, and for this reason is extensively grown in the semi-arid regions of the west. The cultural practices in growing sorghum are the same as in producing corn, but owing to the slow and tender growth of the young sorghum plant a finely tilled seed bed and a perfectly clean soil are perhaps of greater importance than in the case of corn.

Sorghum is sown in drills or broadcasted, and is also raised in rows. When broadcasted from one to one and a half bushels of seed are required to sow an acre, and when drilled from one to two bushels are sufficient. The crop is grown for soiling, hay, fodder, silage, seed and, in the case of the saccharine crop, for syrup. From ten to twenty tons of green forage can be produced from four to eight tons of hay, and thirty bushels of seed per acre are regarded as satisfactory yields.

The hay and fodder are richer in food and starch than corn fodder, but poorer in protein. When cut at blooming time the fodder has the highest percentage of digestibility. Sorghum sometimes grows so rank that it is difficult to cut, and the formation of prussic acid in the leaves.

When fully grown the plant is from six to eight feet high, the stalks from one to two inches in diameter. Well trimmed stalks yield about 50 cent of their weight in juice; and of this from five to ten gallons, and on the average, the seed and the maturity of the crops, make a gallon of syrup. The product of juice to the acre is from 15 to 400 gallons, and this yields from 5 to 9 per cent of alcohol.

EASTERN STAR STUDY CLASS HOLDS MEETING

Patriotic Program Given at Home of Mrs. James Caldwell, Forest Park Boulevard.

A splendid patriotic program was featured at the meeting of the Eastern Star Study class at the home of Mrs. James Caldwell on Forest Park boulevard. Quotations from the flag were given by all in response to roll call, and Mrs. Mina Caldwell read a poem by Joseph Rodman Drake, entitled, "Our Flag." Mrs. Edna M. Viole read a carefully prepared and interesting paper on Martha Washington in which she dwelt on the fact of her domestic nature, her housewifely ways, and her many fine traits of character which endeared her to all her friends. The facts in her early life were outlined, and the details of her first marriage to Daniel Park Curtis were given. The two children of the marriage, who lived to be such pleasure to General Washington, were mentioned. It was said that she was a specially devoted wife to Washington and a fitting helpmate to him in his one great duty as president. After his death she never ceased to mourn his loss.

A fine paper was given by Mrs. Mollie Kersch on Mary Ball, the mother of Washington. It was illustrated with many prints and pictures, the best known of which is the picture entitled, "Washington's Farewell Visit." The women of the country became aroused by the neglected condition of the grave of Mary Ball, and organized a national association to care for it. A beautiful and fitting monument was raised over the grave and a fund provided to care for it. The president, the chief justice and the governor of Virginia, in members of this commission in charge of the fund. The beautiful, well-rounded life of Mary Ball Washington was described in detail, from her childhood days spent in Virginia to the time when the hard days befell her and she was left a widow at the age of thirty-six with a large estate to care for and seven small children to educate and rear. That she performed her duties carefully and well is evidenced by the fact that her children all became a credit to her instruction and that they adorned her name and her life. She died at the age of eighty-two, and was buried at Fredericksburg, Va., where most of her life was spent.

A pleasant feature of the afternoon was the cake made by Mrs. Lauren Caldwell for the benefit of the Red Cross. The cake was sold to Mrs. Charles Shoemaker for $1.25 and was given back by her to the study class. In this way the cake netted $3.75. A bountiful supper was served at the close of the afternoon by the hostess, assisted by Summers and Mrs. Hyatt. There was a large attendance, about forty-five members being present.

BIG TOURNAMENT IS ON; ARCADIA CLUB OPENS WITH 2,066

First Event of Tournament Bowled Last Evening at West Side Alloys by Arcadia Club Team.

Two thousand and sixty-six pins was the total score rolled by the Arcadia club five in the first event of the Wisconsin Bowling tournament at the West Side Alloys last evening. The club men were somewhat off color, Denning being the only man to show up well under the excitement of being in a tournament. He cracked the pins for 174 in his first game, for high score of the five man team. He also secured honors for high average in the three games with 50 pins. The bowling of his cohorts was erratic, however, and consequently this team is not expected to figure in any of the prizes offered.

Kings started weak with 113 pins but finished up strong with 187 and 150 pins. The rest of the men were consistently weak and brought down the average considerably. The average for each man in all of the games was only 137 pins.

Tonight more games in the tournament are scheduled. The Arcadia club will bowl as follows:

Denning	174	124	182
Hines	113	187	150
Naveck	123	134	127
Smith	181	155	117

In the second exciting match, the barbers nipped out a victory over the Golden Eagle five by a margin of only 4 pins. Miller was high with 171. The scores of these games:

UMPIRE CONNOLLY TO GET AN HONOR CROSS

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]

New York, March 7.—Umpire Tom Connolly, veteran American league umpire, is to be given signal honors in token of his long years of service as a judge of play on the diamond.

President Branch, recently announced that the order of the cross will be conferred on Connolly, who will celebrate his twenty-fifth season as a handler of the diamond this year.

The cross to be given Connolly will not be an iron cross. It will not be a token emblem of militarism, nor yet the double cross. It will be a gold Maltese cross, highly jeweled, and will be official recognition of long and faithful service.

This honor has been bestowed on but one other umpire in the history of the American league, the late Jack Sheridan being the first to receive it.

Connolly began his career as an umpire in the New England league away back in 1894. After serving in that league for several seasons and establishing a reputation for competence and fearlessness in judging plays, he was engaged by the National league.

His career as a National league umpire began in 1898 and he remained a member of the National staff until 1900, when illness forced him to quit his post. In the spring of 1901 he followed his career over to the newly formed American league and has been there ever since.

He has seen players come and go in his time—hundreds of them—and an American league is that every player who was in the league when he came into it has now passed on to the horizon, with the exception of Plank, who is owned by the Yankees, and Harry Lajole, who is still in the game. Magrath, too, have come and gone as Connolly stood by the plate, watching the comings and goings of the players who have lasted through all the years.

Heine Wagner, once the star shortstop of the Boston Red Sox, has lately passed out of the American league. Wagner played wonderful ball for the Beaneaters, particularly in the 1912 world's series with the Giants. He was a corking good hitter and one of the team's big men. Four years ago Wagner's throwing arm went back on him and he had to give up active playing. But the Red Sox kept him on the pay roll as a coach. The engagement of Johnny Rivers by the Red Sox recently forced Wagner out into the cold, but it will be a long time before Boston fans will forget what they did for him.

Catcher Kahn, who has been the third strong backstop of the Reds for several seasons, has been sent to the Milwaukee club.

KEEPING SOLDIERS STRONG

Early in the world-war cod liver oil was selected to fortify the health of soldiers against the rigors and exposure of camp life and to help build up enduring strength.

SCOTT'S IS THE EMULSION that actually guarantees the pure quality of Norwegian Cod Liver Oil which is refined in our own American laboratories. It is skillfully emulsified to promote prompt assimilation which is always difficult with the raw oil.

Scott's Emulsion is famous for putting power in the blood to thwart colds, grippe, pneumonia and lung trouble. It is free from alcohol or opiates.

COMPLETE DETAILS OF PLANS FOR BIG PATRIOTIC REGATTA

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, March 8.—Details are rapidly being completed for the holding of the national patriotic regatta on the Severn at Annapolis, Md., Saturday, May 18, and there are grounds to believe that the event will be the most remarkable intercollegiate rowing contest in the history of the sport in this country. Not alone in the number of entries but in the conditions which will surround the regatta does the event stand out as one of unusual importance. In addition, the competition may have a far-reaching effect upon college rowing in general to come when national and international conditions have returned to a normal state.

Seven eastern college crews are virtually assured for the so-called "varsity" race and if Syracuse university accepts the invitation, as seems likely, there will be eight starters for main events. The entry for the freshmen contest is not expected to reach this number this year but it appears certain that three to five of the first year combinations will take the water in a race preliminary to the "varsity" battle of course.

No definite decision regarding the distance of the race has been reached at the present time but it is thought that the main event will be a two-mile race. There is a rule at the United States naval academy which limits the navy crews to races not to exceed one mile, 530 yards. The majority of the other institutions, however, have adopted the two-mile distance as a standard for all preliminary season races and it is thought that the naval academy may relax its rule in order to object to the regatta to two miles, under the circumstances.

A feature never before presented upon so large a scale is that every one of the visiting crews will row the races in borrowed shells which will be drawn for by lot a day or two before the regatta. Owing to the demand upon railroad transportation facilities it is almost impossible to ship a racing shell to distant points with any certainty that the crew will be ready in time for a scheduled date. This was one of the difficulties which was overcome by staging the regatta at Annapolis. A number of eight rowing shells belonging to the naval academy and the Baltimore rowing clubs will be available for the invading crews and they will be awarded by lot.

The various college crew coaches are complete for the St. Louis American league to start their "thrift journey" on March 10 with Shreveport, La., as their objective. Business Manager Quinn says that the thrift idea is in accord with the general spirit of conservation and means that when the Browns engage in their spring training they will dispense with all unnecessary luxuries. They will also travel "light" that is, baggage will be reduced to the minimum. Twenty-six players, an unusually low number, will assemble at Shreveport for the annual preliminary workout. Severoid, Nunnemaker, Lowdermilk, Sothoron, Shooker, Wright, Leifeld, Slater, Johns, Grier, Austin, Haisler, Tobin, Smith, Cullop, Gledson, Johnson and Williams, who have spent the winter in cities far removed from St. Louis, have been advised to be in Shreveport in time for initial practice.

MANY ADMIRERS ARE GAINED BY FULTON

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]

New York, March 7.—Fred Fulton won more than the right to be classed as ready for Willard when he beat Frank Moran.

The ponderous plasterer set the pace of the country to jabbering about him, and he has turned up with a great many more admirers than he formerly had.

Fulton accomplished in three rounds what Willard failed to do in ten when he won a technical knockout over Moran. Frank's seconds would never have tossed the sponge into the ring had they thought there was a chance for the former.

According to the story of the bout by rounds Moran had the better of the going in the first two sessions. He went out to meet Fulton and banged him around with everything he had.

Then Fulton came back, and zowie! with two solid wallops he took all the stuffing out of Moran. In previous bouts Fulton showed an unmistakable sign of hating punishment. He had a habit of complaining to the referee continually that did not make a good impression at the ringside.

But apparently he has gotten over this fault. Losing it meant everything to him in a pugilistic way, for the fight fan doesn't like that sort of thing.

Since he beat Moran, Fulton is enjoying the knowledge that at least 50 per cent of the bugs who once oohed in his makeup have perished. The thought and are now conceding him a good chance with Willard.

Fulton's chances against Willard, as the writer sees them, depend on two things.

One is his confidence in himself when he eventually stands facing Willard awaiting the bell for the first round.

The other is what Willard can do in the way of getting himself into fighting trim, and how highly he values his title.

A fight between these two battlers, with Fulton supremely confident and Willard determined to hold his crown, would be well worth seeing.

PETEY DINK—NOW THE FISH IS GETTING HENRIETTA.

Janesville Plumber Thought He Needed New Pipes

His stomach and intestines were always full of gas and I often had severe colic attacks. The pain and nervousness caused me to think I needed a new set of pipes. Since taking May's Wonderful Remedy all this has disappeared and my only trouble now is to make enough to buy all the food I like to eat. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the harmful gases from the intestinal tract and relieves the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will cure you of indigestion, flatulence, gas, etc. Price 25c. Sold everywhere.

RAILROAD MEN, READ! YOUR BROTHER SPEAKS

"I was afflicted with what the doctors said were Varicose Uterus, and after about two weeks ago I had them for about a year and five months. With all the treatments prescribed by several doctors I received little benefit, and they kept spreading, gave me much distress and caused me to quit work."

"I was induced by a brother brakeman to try Peterson's Ointment, and after I had used two boxes I saw the wonderful results. You can tell suffering ones troubles with such, painful and horrid ulcers that your friend need a cure for them when everything else fails, as I have tried about everything."

"Thanking you many times over, I am, your happy friend, Chas. J. Haysen, 108 E. Chestnut, Milwa., 42 (1918)." (Signed) Haysen.

Know and dozens of people write to me, saying Peterson's Ointment also cures eczema, pimples, blackheads, old sores, salt rheum, piles and all skin diseases, and all the rest of it, a box for 25c. Get it at once.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you take a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating. No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cured with "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimples.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the intensely effective discovery of Dr. Edwards.

Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

A Fight For Life

It has been fight or die for many of us in the past and the lucky people are those who are now well because they heeded nature's warning signal in time to correct their trouble with that wonderful new discovery of Dr. Edwards, called "An-u-r-o." You should promptly heed these warnings, some of which are dizzy spells, backache, irregularity of the urine or the painful "wings or rheumatism, sciatica or bunions." To delay may make possible the dangerous forms of kidney disease, such as stone in the bladder.

To overcome these distressing conditions take plenty of exercise in the open air, avoid a heavy meat diet, drink freely of water, and at each meal take Dr. Edwards' Anuric Tablets (double strength). You will, in a short time, find that you are one of the firm indorsees of Anuric.

St. Paul, Minn.—"I just want to say that Anuric has done for me what many other remedies have utterly failed to do. For over thirty years I suffered with rheumatic pains. At times I would have them in my back, then they would start in my left shoulder and run down into my arm, also in my legs, extending down the limb to my ankle. I can't begin to tell you how much I suffered during this time. A short time ago I heard of Dr. Edwards' Anuric Tablets and I have taken one bottle of the tablets and today have not a pain or an ache—thanks to Anuric. I cannot say enough in its praise."—JOHN EVENSEN, 3029 Greenbrier Avenue.

Ask the druggist for Anuric (50c), or send Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 10c for trial package.

Cap'n Warren's Wards

By JOSEPH C. LINCOLN.

Copyright, 1911, D. Appleton & Co.

"Hey?" The captain turned and looked his guest squarely in the eye. His brows drew together. "Two got a brother in New York," he answered slowly. "Did he send you here?"

"Was your brother's name A. Rodgers Warren?"

"A. Rodgers? No. His name is Abijah Warren, and—wait! His middle name is Rodgers, though. Did Bije send you to me?"

"A moment, captain. Was your brother a broker?"

"Yes. His office is or used to be on Broad street. What?"

"You have not heard from him for some time?"

"Not for eighteen years. He and I didn't agree as well as we might. Maybe 'twas my fault, maybe 'twas his. I have my own ideas on that. If you're looking for Bije Warren's brother, Mr. Graves, I guess you're come to the right place. But what he sent you to me for or what he wants for he wants something or he wouldn't have sent—I don't understand."

"Why do you think he wanted something?"

"Because he's Bije Warren and I was brought up with him. When we were young ones together he went to school and I went to work. He got the frostin' on the cake, and I got the burnt part next to the pan. He went to college, and I went to sea. Years later on that we—Well, never mind that either. What is it he wants of me after eighteen years?"

"He wants a good deal of you, Captain Warren, or did want it?"

"Did? Don't he want it now? Is Bije dead?"

"He died ten days ago very suddenly. In a way it was a great shock to us all, yet we have known that his heart was weak. He realized it too."

"So Bije is dead, hey?" Captain Elisha's face was very grave, and he spoke slowly. "Dead? Well, well, well!"

He paused and looked into the fire. Graves saw again that vague resemblance he had caught on the train, but had forgotten. He knew now why he noticed it.

Captain Elisha cleared his throat. "Well, well!" he asked. "So Bije has gone. I s'pose you think it's odd, maybe," he went on, "that I ain't more struck down by the news. But, to speak truth, he and I have been so apart and have had nothin' to do with each other for so long that—that—well, I've come to feel as if I didn't have a brother. And I know he felt that way—yes, and wanted to feel so. I know that. There was a time when I'd have got down on my knees and crawled from here to New York to help Bije Warren. I lent him money to start in business. Later on him and I went into partnership together on a—well, South American speculation that didn't pan out for nothin'. I didn't care for that. I took my chance same as he did. We formed a stock company all amongst ourselves, and I've got my share of the stock somewhere yet. It may come in handy if I ever want to hance the barn. But 'twas business deals of that kind that parted us; 'twas another matter—something that he did to other folks who'd trusted us and—humph! This don't interest you, of course. Well, Bije was well off, I know. His wife died way back in the nineties. She was one of them fashionable women, and a hardcase salt herin' of a bachelor brother-in-law stuck down here in the sand heaps didn't interest her much—except as something to forget, I s'pose. I used to see her name in the Boston papers occasionally, givin' parties at Newport and one thing another. I never evin' met that kind of life."

"Your brother had two children by his marriage," said Mr. Graves after a moment of silence.

"Hey? Two children? Why, yes, I remember he did. Boy and girl, wa'n't they? I never saw 'em. They've grown up by this time, of course."

"Yes. The eldest, Caroline, is nearly twenty. The boy, Stephen, is a year younger. It is concerning those children, Captain Warren, that I have come to see you. In spite of the estrangement it is evident that his confidence in your judgment and integrity was supreme. His children were his idols, Captain Warren, and he has left them in your charge."

The captain's pipe fell to the hearth. "What?" he shouted. "Left his children to me? Mr. Graves, you're—your're out of your head—or I am!"

"I say that your brother has left his two children in your care until the youngest shall become of age—twenty-one. I have a copy of his will here, and—"

"Wait, wait! Let me think. Left his children to me—to me! Mr. Graves, had Bije lost all his money?"

"No. He was not the millionaire that many thought him. Miss Warren—"

"He has left them in your charge," and her brother will be obliged to economize somewhat in their manner of living. But with care and economy their income should be quite sufficient without touching the principal to—"

"Hold on again! The income, you say. What is that income?"

"Roughly speaking, a mere estimate, about $20,000 to $25,000 yearly."

"Mr. Graves—Mr. Graves, are you crazy? No! I asked you that before! But—$20,000 a year! For mercy sakes, what's the principal?"

"In the neighborhood of $300,000, I believe. Of course we had no authority to investigate thoroughly. That will be a part of your duties, but—"

"Ssh! Let me sink this into my brains a little at a time. Bije leaves his children $500,000, half a million, and—and they've got to economize! And I'm—would you mind readin' me that will?"

The attorney drew a long envelope from his pocket, extracted therefrom a folded document, donned a pair of gold mounted eyeglasses and began to read aloud:

"First, I direct my executor hereinafter named to pay my just debts and funeral expenses as soon as may be convenient after my decease."

"Did he owe much, think likely?" asked Captain Elisha.

"Apparently not—very little beyond the usual bills of a household."

"Second, I give, devise and bequeath all my estate, both real and personal, to my brother, Elisha Warren, if he survive me, in trust nevertheless for the following purpose—to wit, to invest the same and to use the income thereof for the education and maintenance of my two children, Caroline Edgercombe Warren."

"Edgercombe? Names for some of his wife's folks, I presume likely. Excuse me for puttin' my oar in again. Go on."

"And Stephen Cole Warren."

"That's his wife, sartin. She was a Cole. I swan, I beg your pardon."

"Until the elder, Caroline Edgercombe Warren, shall have reached her twenty-first birthday, when one-half of the principal of said estate, together with one-half of the accumulated interest, shall be given to her and the trust continued for the education and maintenance of my son, Stephen Cole Warren, until he shall have reached his twenty-first birthday, when I direct that the remainder be given to him."

"Third, I appoint as testamentary guardian of my said children my said brother, Elisha Warren."

"Fourth, I appoint as sole executor of this my last will and testament my said brother, Elisha Warren."

"Fifth, imposing implicit trust and confidence in Elisha Warren, my brother, I direct that he be not required to give bond for the performance of any of the affairs or trusts to which he has been herein appointed."

"The remainder," concluded Graves, "referring the will, 'is purely formal. It is dated May 15 three years ago. I come to acquaint you with your brother's last wishes and to ascertain whether—"

"You think that wouldn't cause no more rejoicin' than some other things have? Yes, yes; I calculate I understand, Mr. Graves. Well, I guess you'll—" have to. I was built and launched this. The whole house is yours. Help yourself to it. But when I'm caught in a clove hitch I just have to get down and think myself out of it. I have to give me tonight to chew over that way, I guess, and maybe you'll excuse me."

It was after two the next morning before Captain Elisha rose from his chair by the fire and entered his bedchamber. Yet when Atwood Graves came down to breakfast he found his host in the sitting room awaiting him.

"Afore we tackle Abbie's pancakes and fishbills, Mr. Graves," said the captain, "let me ask you one more question. This—er—er—Caroline and Stephen they're used to livin' pretty well—fashionable society and the like of that, hey?"

"Yes. Their home was on Fifth avenue, and the family moved in the best circles."

"I do get so mixed up with your dukes and things!"
